WHAT IF I ACCIDENTALLY CALL 911?

If you ever accidentally call 9-1-1 it is important to stay on the line and explain to the Telecommunicator that you accidentally called.

If you do hang up the Telecommunicator will have to manually call you back to verify your emergency; and if there is no answer, will have to send a law enforcement officer to your address to check on your welfare.

HELPFUL HINTS WHEN CALLING FOR EMERGENCY SERVICES

HOW TO USE 9-1-1

9-1-1 is a universal number that is used when emergency services are needed (for example, police departments, fire departments, and emergency medical services). It should only be used for the purpose of an emergency when there is an imminent threat to the life of oneself, someone else or to property—including hazardous material emergencies.

THREAT TO LIFE

When someone is in danger of serious bodily injury or death; also reporting of missing or kidnapped persons.

THREAT TO PROPERTY OR A STRUCTURE

When physical property (homes, buildings, bridges, aircraft, automobiles, trains, watercraft, and roads) is in danger of having its appearance and/or foundation altered in any manner by fire/explosion, collision, serious water damage, natural disasters; especially if these pose a threat to life.

HAZMAT EMERGENCIES

Hazardous materials which include, but not limited to, certain gasses, liquids, radioactive and infectious materials that can be potentially flammable, explosive, corrosive, toxic, and poisonous which can cause serious illness, injury and/or death.

Stay As Calm As Possible...

When calling 9-1-1, try to stay as calm as possible. This is very important so that the operator can get the proper information to determine where you are, what's going on, and the type of service that is needed.

Do Not Hang Up...

It is crucial that you DO NOT HANG UP on the 9-1-1 Telecommunicator out of frustration!!!

You might think the operator is asking too many questions and not sending you the help you need, but the truth is, the call is being dispatched or has been dispatched already by another Telecommunicator.

Hanging up on the 9-1-1 Telecommunicator can cause unnecessary delays in responding to your emergency. It's the absolute worst thing you can do!!

DO NOT HANG UP!

ANSWER THE QUESTIONS BEING ASKED!

Do not become irritated with the 9-1-1 Telecommunicator when being asked questions concerning the nature of the call.

These questions are to obtain information to, again, determine the place of the emergency, what is going on, and what type of services are needed.

Most importantly, the questions asked are for personnel safety as well.

Do not "story-tell" when answering questions. Answer only the questions being asked in a calm and quick manner. The more you add information that is not immediately relative to the emergency, the longer the response time may take!
