COOLEEMEE

Cooleemee Mill Town
Historic District
(added 2014 - District # 14000704)

This designation roughly encompasses the area once owned by Erwin Cotton Mills which makes up the largest portion of the incorporated Town of Cooleemee, NC, including over 300 original mill houses, churches and other structures with three public history museums. Pictured is the stone dam on the South Yadkin River. The town's industrial roots trace back to the 1790s.

HOW ARE SITES SELECTED?

The National Register's standards for evaluating the significance of properties were developed to recognize the accomplishments of all peoples who have made a significant contribution to our country's history and heritage. The criteria are designed to guide State and local governments, Federal agencies, and others in evaluating potential entries in the National Register.

Criteria for Evaluation The quality of significance in American history, architecture, archeology, engineering, and culture is present in districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects that possess integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association, and:

- A. That are associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; or
- B. That are associated with the lives of persons significant in our past; or
- C. That embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or that represent the work of a master, or that possess high artistic values, or that represent a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction; or
- D. That have yielded or may be likely to yield, information important in prehistory or history.
